I will be giving (my first major)  keynote speech  at  NeuroInformatics 2013  in Stockholm, Sweden in August. I will be speaking about how to use data-intensive computing architectures to transform our understanding of neurophysiology, describing the hardware and software architecture of the Open Connectome Project.